

Abstract of the Disclosure

A negative-type photosensitive resin compositions containing an epoxy compound are provided. These compositions use poly(p-vinylphenol) as the base resin and have good development performance when using an aqueous developer, such as tetramethylammonium hydroxide solution.